HOUSE CRISIS SHOCK HITS HOME

BRITAIN IS FACING A HOUSING CRISIS. It is a crisis that no-one can ignore for this time it is not just the poor who are facing the sharp end of the System, but also many 'homeowners' who are now fully beginning to recognize the 'benefits' of Capitalism.

For over the past few weeks thousands of families who thought that they were secure in their own homes have found themselves faced with the prospect of being homeless as their houses are repossessed by banks, building societies and other financial sharks.

Traditionally, it has always been the poorer sections of society who have had to come to terms with homelessness and little chance of securing stable roots.

For the poor, the housing crisis was already a horrific nightmare with over half a million people being officially registered as homeless before the last General Election.

But although this figure makes sober reading in itself, it should not be forgotten that the Tories managed to 'cook the books' once again so that only families, mothers-to-be, the disabled and single people over 60 counted as homeless.

The much larger numbers of single homeless people, mainly the young, were not counted among the figures.

COUNCIL SCANDAL

And for those lucky enough to have managed to get a council house the crisis wasn't at an end.

As the municipal housing stock is progressively run-down many council tenants find themselves living in sub-standard accommodation, soul-destroying tower blocks and sprawling estates of badly vandalized blocks of flats that have become rampant with violence, rapes and muggings.

Spending on council houses is down more than 60 per cent whilst rents have more than trebled. Ten years ago over 170,000 new council homes were built annually. Today, less than 30,000 are built every year.

And just to bring the existing council stock up to standard it is estimated that it would cost at least £19 billion. Meanwhile many families, young people and pensioners are living in cold, squalid and damp prisons. It is either this or the streets!

The wide gap between council tenants and homeowners could be demonstrated by the number of improvement grants given. Last year a total of 86,000 grants were accepted for council house improvements. Grants for private home improvement numbered a massive 230,000.

But now this has all changed!

MORTGAGE SCAM

For as the Capitalist System lurches from one crisis to another the housing scandal has begun to affect the largest section of society - homeowners.

Only the rich and the privileged parasites of society have escaped the effects of this inevitable crunch.

For as the money supply tightens, mainly due to the Tories attempting to come to terms with trying to repay the massive interest on the National Debt to the bankers, the banks and building societies have been putting the squeeze on homeowners by pushing up the interest rates on mortgages.

And this has led to thousands of families being unable to find the extra money needed to pay off their mortgages. The result being that the financial institutions are beginning to repossess what most people throughout the country had regarded as their own homes.

For a while many people will be driven into the arms of loan-sharks to borrow money at exorbitant rates in order to keep their homes. But sooner or later even the unscrupulous money-lenders are going to decide to cut their losses as the spiral of debt quickly moves from worse to impossible.

And when this happens the effects will make the 'Big Bang' in the City last year look like a fire-cracker as millions of our people find themselves pushed to the front-line.

* Make sure of getting your next issue of National Front News where we will be analysing the present crisis and how it can be corrected.

'Homeowners' are no longer safe from the housing crisis. Many can no longer meet their mortgage payments and are being thrown out of what they considered to be their own homes.

ELECTRIC BILLS TO GO UP TO PAY FOR NUCLEAR MADNESS

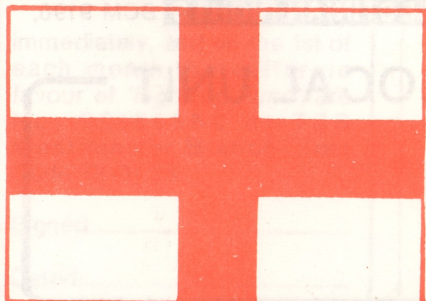

ELECTRICITY PRICES are going to soar again as the Tories 'fatten up' the electricity industry for privatization. In spite of profits of £865 million last year, last April's 9% increase is to be followed by another sharp jump in prices next April.

The plan is to double the industry's profits over two years, in spite of the enormous losses being made by the insane nuclear power programme. The cost of running the Advanced Gas-Cooler Reactors (AGRs) alone was £100 million higher than planned last year. And long delays in bringing the three newest ones into service are adding to the cost.

These nuclear reactors are environmentally disastrous and incredibly dangerous. But Thatcher has personally led the drive to get more built as a way of weakening the power of the coal miners. Nuclear power certainly doesn't make any economic sense, being far more expensive than conventional or many alternative power sources.

But the Tories are determined to keep them, so they are looking for ways to force the new owners of the privatized electricity board to continue with the nuclear programme. And that means making the ordinary customer pick up the bill.

The director of the Electricity Consumers' Council has even gone so far as to say that the government should "stop asking customers to pay for a technology that does not work". But as the Tories are determined both to sell off the electricity industry and to boost nuclear power, there is no chance that this recommendation will be heeded. Instead, it is ordinary people who will continue to suffer, and we will continue to pay for the insanity of the System, perhaps with our lives.

HOME AFFAIRS, ANALYSIS & COMMENT

POLLUTION IS TO BLAME

MORE THAN 7,000 dead seals, adults and pups, have been washed ashore in Sweden, Denmark, Norway, the Netherlands and West Germany in recent weeks. Now the disease has struck Britain, with dozens of dead seals being washed up at Blakeney Point on the North Norfolk coast.

An expert on wildlife toxicology, Mr. Mark Simmonds, points to the wholesale dumping at sea of chemicals like PCB's as the cause, challenging government fishery scientists who have tried to claim that there is no link with man-made pollution of our seas. "Often we find that outbreaks of disease occur in some of the cleanest water".

In answer to this cover-up Mr. Simmonds points out how seals build up toxic chemicals in their fatty blubber from the polluted fish that they eat. This leaves them too sick to fight viruses normally not deadly to them.

GARBAGE

Something like 20 billion tons of garbage now clog the seas of the world and one of the worst areas is the North Sea. The irony of our government talking of "some of the cleanest water" is clear when one considers that Britain is the exception amongst the countries surrounding the North Sea in that we continue, to their anger, to dump 5 million tons of sludge (that is, treated sewage) annually.

Children on beaches from Brighton to Southend to Yarmouth have been warned to avoid the sea, bathers risking everything from skin disease to viral hepatitis to oral thrush.

Shallow and relatively enclosed, the North Sea retains much of the millions of tons of zinc, lead, copper and even arsenic, mercury and radioactive waste dumped in rivers and on coasts. More and more scientists are concerned about the spate of fish killing algae clouds, known as red tides, which have been linked to nutrient run-off from chemical fertilizers and the nitrates from acid rain. The 5,000 miles of oil pipeline leaks at least 30,000 tons of crude oil into the North Sea every year.

We demand that the government calls an end to this crass neglect of our surrounding seas NOW. Japan has proved that the technology and expertise exists to treat, until drinkable, almost every type of contaminated water. The only difference being that their fishermen have demanded and got the necessary investment, while Britain's fishermen are forgotten.

DEFORMED

Haddock, salmon, rays, sturgeon and oysters have all disappeared from our coasts. The fish that survive are often deformed, with scale infections and tumors. The toxins in mackerel livers have been linked with the deaths of whales who have suicidally beached after eating them.

What does Thatcher do? A recent government report leaked out that when the waste treatment industry is privatized next year, it would prevent people suing waste-treatment plants even when they pour out illegally high levels of toxic pollution! Must we wait until the last fish, and bather, turns belly up before we act.

NEWS FROM THE GUTTER

Following our expose of the secret office of the sordid Zionist/Marxist cabal of Searchlight magazine, this item appeared in the David Rose 'Diary' column in the Guardian of 29th July.

"THOSE DOUGHTY anti-fascists at Searchlight magazine were somewhat discomfited this week to find the publication's east London address — long a closely-guarded secret — splashed, with photograph, across National Front News. Given the extreme-right's continuing and recent penchant for firebombing its opponents — the leader of the Newcastle section of Anti-Fascist Action was the most recent victim of an arson attack at dead of night — this is no laughing matter. How, then, to explain the leak? Infiltration can be ruled out. There is, however, convincing evidence to suggest that the source lies within British Telecom. If so, as Labour MP Jeremy Corbyn pointed out in a letter yesterday to the Home Secretary, Douglas Hurd, asking him to order an investigation, this would contravene the Data Protection and Official Secrets Acts.

Our Security and Intelligence Department has obviously unsettled these hatemongers and we are awaiting their next move with interest.

But when they do make it be assured that SID will be there with camera to show you where they run to.

SHARING THE BOARDROOM

Mr. Noel Falconer, a self-employed engineer and novelist, has upset the British Gas Board. He wanted a seat on the board to protect the interest of small shareholders so he put himself up for the Board.

But Sir Dennis Rooke, holding 500 million proxy votes from large shareholders and institutions, told Falconer that they did not want him on the board. Rooke tried to stop Mr. Falconer standing by saying that the resulting ballot would cost £700,000.

Falconer has shown that by owning a few shares in a massive company you do not become part of the so-called 'share owning democracy'. As he himself put it, "The self-perpetuating oligarchy will push small shareholders further down into the cesspit".

NFN has always said that share ownership is a farce. Only the wide and direct distribution of wealth and property will bring freedom and real prosperity to our people.

TWO SIDES OF THE SAME COIN

EXTREME LABOUR Councils are denying White, Asian and Black parents alike the right to send their children to school among their own kind.

In the last issue of NFN we exposed the arrogance of top Tories who want new laws to force Whites and Muslims to integrate in racially mixed schools. But we must not forget that the Labour party is just as bad.

Islamic Primary School is a private run school for Muslim children up to the age of 11. It concentrates on Islamic religious studies and basic subjects such as maths. Asian parents in the area gladly pay the £800 a year fees rather than send their children to the 'multi-cultural' bedlams which pass as State schools in the Labour-run borough of Brent in West London.

GOOD RECORD

Even though the school has a good academic record and is fully booked for new pupils, applications for permission to expand are constantly turned down by the arrogant council. So are plans to set up a similar style secondary school.

Brent council makes it clear why: "A Muslim school goes against our multi-cultural education policy".

In other words, Asians and Whites are to be forced to integrate in order to destroy their separate racial and cultural identities. For such identities stand in the way of the Labour Marxists' goal of an international dictatorship of the proletariat, just as much as they stand in the way of the Tory Capitalists' goal of a world without national boundaries to hinder the movement of labour or profits.

That is why these two 'rival' ideologies have the same arrogant and repressive attitude towards parents who want what is best for their children.

And that is why the parents, whether they are Whites in Dewsbury, or Asians in Brent, must find ways to campaign together for the right to separate.

FUTURE PROBLEMS

For this insane policy will only create bitter agony and

YOUTH CRISIS

IN this country that is not ours, all culture and pride in one's race and family have been bulldozed under the tank of international uniformity.

In a country with nothing to live for and nothing to die for, it is no surprise that many young people have had recourse to drugs and glue as a way out of the 'Top of the Pops' anti-culture to which the establishment wants to reduce us.

A recent article in the Enfield Advertiser published the results of the British Journal of Addiction under the headline "Drugs and glue are top of the class". According to the survey, drug taking and glue sniffing is becoming commonplace in London's comprehensive schools. The report claims that one in five pupils have experimented with drugs or glue, with many starting at an early age of just 11, and girls are just as likely to have used them as boys!

It also claims that the average age at which drugs were first used was below 13, that one in 12 pupils used drugs or solvents repeatedly and that one in 20 used amphetamines; LSD; heroin; or tranquilizers.

Not only will we stamp out this evil trade, but we will build a society which people, young, middle-aged or old, will feel part of. In a society worth living for, young people will not need to turn to the slow suicide of drugs to find a purpose and excitement in their lives.

numerous avoidable problems in years to come, when our foreign visitors are at last enabled to return to their own lands.

For what benefit is there in Anglicized Asians feeling like foreigners in their own Motherland, and what good can come from a generation of Whites who have lost their own unique traditions and spirit, and are being torn apart inside because of the sick experiments conducted upon them when they were children.

DISCLAIMER

THE NATIONAL DIRECTORATE of the NATIONAL FRONT wishes to make it clear that the Flag and Vanguard are not National Front Publications. They do not reflect NF policy or strategy and do not speak for the National Front.

They are produced by a small clique of reactionaries, thieves and drunks, expelled from the NF in 1986. Officials are reminded that both publications and their editors are proscribed. Members of the public are warned that the NF cannot be held responsible for money lost on subscriptions to the Flag and Vanguard when they cease publication.

INTEREST

BARCLEYCARD has just raised the interest rate it charges its 9 million holders to 26.8% - more than five times the rate of inflation. Lloyd's bank Access promptly followed by raising its rate to 25.3% and TSB Visa cards cost 23.5%.

Meanwhile, most store credit cards, such as Debenhams, Dixons and Selfridges, cost over 30% a year.

This is dragging millions of people into a spiral of debt which they can never repay. While the economy is reasonably buoyant most will be able to at least meet the interest payments, but even a slight down-turn will push vast numbers over the brink.

The materialist society is a sickness based upon usury, vanity and greed. It might seem a hard thing to say, but a stiff dose of financial reality would do us all a world of good.

And if that leads to people questioning the 'right' of private banks and finance houses to create credit and charge interest on money that they never actually possessed, then so much the better.

DOLE

THE GOVERNMENT is again cooking the books to 'reduce' the unemployment figures. Under new Social Security rules, from now on virtually no-one under the age of 18 will be eligible to claim benefits. And as people without a job but not in receipt of benefit are no longer classed as unemployed, at least 100,000 people will disappear from the dole figures overnight!

Even before the latest fiddle, the Department of Employment's own figures show that this government's earlier exercises in 'moving the goalposts' have cut unemployment by well over half a million.

Add to this the 280,000 on schemes such as the Community Programme, the 370,000 on the Youth Training Scheme, some 100,000 folk (rarely the real dole fiddlers) scared off the register by tighter eligibility tests and so on. Once such ploys are taken into account, it becomes clear that unemployment is still, in the real sense, virtually as high as it has ever been.

This is a criminal waste of national resources and of human potential. Don't let the Tories tell you otherwise, and don't be fooled into thinking that the problem has gone away.

REMEMBRANCE
DAY - WHY THERE WILL BE NO MARCH

THE ILLEGAL police ban on the NF's Remembrance Day Parade in central London - first implemented on last November's Day of Shame - has led the Directorate and Cadres of the NF to the unanimous decision to find alternative and better ways of remembering our war dead and to cancel the once annual march to the Cenotaph.

The futility of marches and their present worthlessness as a power-building tactic has been widely accepted since 1985, but it is only the police ban, first imposed last year, that has concentrated the minds of our movement on Remembrance Day and given us the courage to admit that this was just another pointless march.

If the National Front was rich enough to challenge the de facto police ban through a judicial review it would be tempting enough to do so as a matter of principle. But as British justice is only available to those who have enough money to pay for it, such an option is not open to us.

And in any case, the reasons for scrapping the Remembrance Sunday march are overwhelming:

POLICE BAN

This is obviously an important factor. As such police action is illegal, we could organize to oppose it on the streets in a spectacular act of mass defiance. But the disorder which the police would create as a result would tarnish a solemn day and would be twisted by the mass media into a dangerous weapon against us.

Furthermore, we must face this simple fact: The NF is a small organization, pitted against all the resources of the massively powerful Westminster State. In any head-on confrontation, we will inevitably suffer defeat and heavy casualties in terms of court costs and sentences. Our only hope of victory is to wage a political guerilla war, avoiding set-piece head-on clashes and ensuring that we pick the ground on which to fight.

SECURITY RISK

It has been clear for several years now that Britain's secret political police - Special Branch and MI5 - have actually approved of the NF's Remembrance Day Parade. This is simply because it enables them to make a regular check on which areas of our nationwide organization are strong or weak; it enables them to see who is talking and marching with who; the pre-march negotiations allow them to meet and assess different members of the leadership.

And above all, the zoom lens cameras positioned above the rally site provide 'mug shots' of every activist. This is an appalling security risk which simply cannot be justified.

PUBLIC IMAGE

In order to be effective as a means of impressing the public and furthering our cause, a march must be a display of strength.

This can only be given in one of two ways. It must either be highly disciplined, with columns of uniformed youth marching in step, or it must be a mass event, with tens of thousands of people thronging the street.

The first option is illegal under the Public Order Act, the second is unattainable at present. The National Front is committed to organizing on the basis of quality rather than quantity. Yet for a march involving set-piece confrontation with the Metropolitan Police and around two thousand violent Communists, we have always had to drag in every hanger-on and sympathetic hooligan we could lay our hands on. The inevitable result of such a one-day-a-year change of strategy is indiscipline and media pictures of 'NF members' swigging from bottles of cider whilst marching to the

RETURN ON EFFORT

The Remembrance Day march has always cost the NF thousands of pounds in terms of travel costs paid by members, coaches and vans booked by units, hired lorries, advertising leaflets, posters and so on. In addition it takes hundreds of man hours to plan, organize and steward.

In return, the best that we can realistically expect is a ten second mention on the news (inevitably accompanied by unflattering pictures as already discussed) and a few lines in one or two papers.

BETTER
ALTERNATIVES

If the same effort is directed more intelligently, in ways more in keeping with our strategy and with reality, much greater rewards can be expected.

So from this year onwards, the futile 'Sunday afternoon shuffle' through deserted central London streets will be replaced by a series of locally based ceremonies and activities designed to commemorate the war dead in a positive way.

Several units are already developing exciting plans in this regard, such as laying a wreath to the dead of their area and the now forgotten men of Ulster who fell by their side, followed by the planting of Oak trees at a local beauty spot.

Such events are almost guaranteed extensive and reasonably favourable local media coverage. Further details of local and regional events will be announced in due course.

In addition, a group of Cadres representing each of the British family of nations will be visiting the battlefields and graveyards of the Somme in northern France. This solemn pilgrimage will be used to focus the attention of the movement on the First World War, with its revolutionary lessons against bungling and betrayal by the State.

There is no doubt that these changes show a further move towards principle and political realism by the National Front. And with imagination and effort, an exciting range of alternative activities should also make our commemoration of Remembrance Day far more effective.

A war memorial on the Somme.

NATIONAL FREEDOM

Britain is a family of Nations - England, Wales, Scotland, Kernow, Mannin, Eire and Ulster - linked by blood and history. The peoples of all nations have an inalienable right to self-determination and to preserve their native cultures and traditions. We look forward to the day when Eire voluntarily rejoins the future federated British family of nations.

RACIAL SEPARATION

Race is the main determining factor in nationality. Racially mixed societies cannot form one nation and are therefore unstable.

No one race is 'superior' to others, but they are all different. Racial integration threatens all races. Humane repatriation is better for us all than endless repression and racial violence.

SOCIAL JUSTICE

The nation is a great family. Every member of our national family has the absolute right to care at the nation's expense when young, sick or old. There must be equal opportunity for all, but unearned privilege for none.

WELL DISTRIBUTED
PROPERTY

The realistic opportunity to own one's own home and place of work is the right of all our people. Direct ownership of the means of production and distribution is essential for individual freedom, for family stability and for the best use of our national resources.

SANITY IN FINANCE

The right to create the credit needed by the economy must belong to the people's government. The banks, which have usurped this right, must be stripped of their unjust gains and power. The National Debt is based on usury and must be repudiated.

RESPECT FOR NATURE

We hold the environment in trust for future generations. Pollution of the land, sea and air, and of the gene pool through radiation, is a betrayal of that trust.

POPULAR RULE

Parliamentary representation is a fraud. Party rule is a cloak for the dictatorship of vested interests and media bosses. Government must be in the hands of the people themselves, through new information technology, and the election of delegates to carry out their wishes. Power must be devolved to the lowest possible level.

THE ARMED PEOPLE

The freedoms given by these principles must be defended through armed neutrality, with well-equipped national defence forces involving the entire adult population. Power, wealth and arms in the hands of the people!

REVOLUTION NOT REFORM

These changes cannot be brought about by tinkering within the System, or by relying on the System's own institutions, such as parliament, schools or the courts. They can only spring from a National Revolution. This revolution must begin in the hearts of individuals, then spread by their example to involve whole communities in revolutionary structures such as alternative councils and schools, neighbourhood patrols and self-help groups. Once we cease to depend on the institutions of the old State, it will be swept aside.

THE THIRD WAY

The growth of these ideas in nation after nation shows that a new force is rising in the world for the 21st century. Leaving behind the sterile hatreds of Capitalism and Communism, this Third Way offers a real future for all our peoples. We urge all those who agree with these principles to join with us in the struggle to build the National Front - the Movement of the Future.

FIGHTING BACK

THE MEDIA LIES - CHANNEL 4 PROGRAM MONTH

CHANNEL 4 is planning an all-out smear attack on the National Front. At the end of last month, two members of the movement's governing body, the National Directorate, were invited to take part in a long interview for the T.V. Station.

They were told that the planned programme would be about the ideological and moral changes in nationalism since the 1970's. But only the first couple of questions dealt with this subject. The NF spokesmen, Pat Harrington and Graham Williamson, were then bombarded with questions and accusations designed to link the Front with violence and terrorism.

Although they had been lured to the interview under false pretences, and were totally unprepared for this, the two decided to stay and made a good job of defending the movement from these smears. But, as their answers are bound to be cut and taken out of context, NFN will deal with the main points here.

ITALIAN REFUGEES

Much was made of the personal friendship between several Italian nationalist political exiles and leading members of the NF. This has never been kept a secret - and there is no reason for it to be. The young members of Terza Posizione (Third Position) sought refuge in Britain after their fast growing organization was smashed on the orders of the Communist magistrates in Italy.

The Italian government applied for their extradition, but the court in London which heard their case ordered it to be dismissed and released them because there was no evidence against them which would stand up in an English court. In fact, the only 'evidence' is the hearsay allegations of police grasses trying to save their own skins.

One of the young men in particular, Roberto Fiore, has been said by the media to be "wanted for questioning in relation to the Bologna bombing". The press and T.V. - including Channel 4 - have been less quick to admit that a recent court case showed that the horrific bomb was the work of members of the Capitalist masonic lodge P2 and a group of neo-nazis. Far from being a defendant in the case, Roberto Fiore was named as an aggrieved innocent party and awarded compensation.

The only things of which Fiore has been convicted of are being a member of an 'armed gang' which is a vague term which he denies, and of 'subversive association', which is clearly a political charge rather than a criminal offence.

Having seen close at hand the disastrous results of the violence and intimidation of the Red Brigades and the Right in Italy, Fiore has always condemned terrorism on both tactical and moral grounds, both in public interviews and private discussions. We are proud to consider this man a friend.

FRANCO FREDA

Channel 4 is also seeking to smear us over our 'links' with another Italian nationalist, Franco Freda. The only connection is the fact that Nationalism Today published an interview with him, together with his defence plea in the final appeal hearing in his trial on allegations that he was responsible for the Piazza Fontana bombing.

Freda was held effectively on remand for 15 years. He is more a suitable candidate for a programme in the TV series Rough Justice than as a hate figure in a Channel 4 smear. For after those 15 years, he was acquitted, because there was no reliable 'evidence' against him!

But immediately after being acquitted, Freda was re-arrested and given another long prison sentence for the purely political offence of 'subversive association'.

Given these facts it is difficult to see how any fair-minded person could describe Freda as a violent terrorist. Still less can anyone seriously use the fact that Nationalism Today gave him a platform to state his case as 'proof' that the National Front is itself inclined to violence.

In any case, it is well known that interviews and articles in NT do not necessarily reflect NF policy. It is a forum for discussion and debate, not a statement of our position. In fact the magazine prides itself on publishing features on controversial people and organizations which are newsworthy and of interest to our audience.

This policy in favour of freedom of information gave Channel 4 another angle of attack, when they pointed to an article published in 1986 about the American 'White Patriot Party'. Much was made of pictures, supplied by the American contributor who wrote the article, of heavily armed paramilitary WPP activists. Such things are quite legal in the USA, and our article simply showed how that organization operated. Channel 4 may specialize in concealing or distorting the truth, the National Front does not. The WPP was newsworthy at the time, mounting unusually large demonstrations, and with its leader, Glenn Miller, planning to run for state governor.

The same issue of NT contained a much more significant feature on the Rev. Louis Farrakhan's US based Nation of Islam. But as this did not fit the Channel 4 image of racist violence, it was ignored.

Nor did the Channel 4 purveyors of falsehood mention that the NF has had no links with, and made no mention of the WPP for at least two years. Yet this is precisely because of our growing concern at the nature of its political leanings and its activities. That concern was shown to be justified when the provocative WPP leader, Miller, played a key role as a witness for the FBI in the trial for sedition of another group of US extremists earlier this year.

Still looking across the Atlantic, Channel 4 homed in on our past links with Garry Gallo, founder of the US 'National Democratic Front'. But again, the TV hacks ignored the fact that we broke all links with Gallo and his organization over a year ago, as a result of its drift towards US imperialism, race hatred, leadership cultism and corporatism.

If we have failed to make this break explicit, we acknowledge the omission and correct it by pointing out that the National Front disassociates itself from Gallo and condemns the political stance of his group.

ULSTER

The Channel 4 interviewer then switched to smears concerning NF activity in Ulster. In particular, he concentrated on the case of Andy McLorie, the school teacher and NF official, framed on a charge of petrol bombing the home of an RUC officer at the height of the loyalist campaign against the Anglo-Irish Agreement.

The interviewer made much of the fact that we described him as a 'prisoner of war'. NFN stands by that description. Andy, and a number of other young activists, were framed and imprisoned by the lackeys of the Westminster State in order to disrupt the NF's political campaigning in Ulster.

The Security Forces were alarmed at the potential of our call for Ulster's Independence which introduced a new dimension to the struggle there. But that campaign never envisaged or involved terrorism or violence.

Any review of NF News of that period will show that the National Front at all times condemned violence as a futile and divisive blind alley. Instead we advocated the building of a popular mass movement which would challenge the State by setting up alternative welfare, housing, educational and economic structures.

This was, and remains, the only way forward, both in Ulster and on the mainland. The National Front has repeatedly condemned terrorism (see especially a major article in NT, no.33, September 1985) and we will continue to condemn it, and to find constructive alternatives, however many provocations such as the framing of Andy McLorie and Co. that we have to endure.

The Channel 4 hack continued on the same subject by alleging that the NF has links with the loyalist paramilitaries, specifically the Ulster Defence Association and the Ulster Volunteer Force. This is not true. We have no organizational links with either. We have no interest in paramilitary methods or activities. The NF has always operated purely in the political and cultural fields, and we intend to continue in that manner. And to make the NF's position on this subject perfectly clear once and for all, we state here and now that the UDA and UVF are proscribed organizations for our members.

'LINKS WITH LIBYA'

The final serious group of allegations related to our supposed links with Libya.

The National Front has been fully committed to the Third Position - 'Neither Capitalism nor Communism' - for more than two years now. During that time we have recognized in Muammar Qathafi's Third Universal Theory

Muammar Qathafi: He has consistently denied conducting or supporting terrorism. Truth will always prevail over falsehood - see page 6.

Franco Freda: A living Martyr for Europe.

From Sacrifice comes Victory.

AGAINST

4 PLAN MONSTROUS SMEAR ME TO BE SHOWN NEXT

Left: A gunman presents to the world's cameras the so-called 'glamorous face of terrorism'. A terrorist victim (above) shows the true nature of this Evil. Terrorism can never be justified whatever the circumstances. It is the path of the corrupted and the hateful.

a very similar political position to our own which we had developed independently. In addition, we found through the Libyan peoples' call for true democracy through direct participation, a most valuable analysis which we are happy to acknowledge has had a big influence on the NF's vision of government.

Whatever the State and the media claim that the Libyans do, or do not do, we are not concerned with. We are merely interested in their ideas. As nationalists we demand the right for our own nations to rule themselves, free from outside interference. And in turn we do not presume to meddle in the affairs of other nations.

If Libya is supplying the IRA with guns and explosives we would seek to persuade the authors of that policy that it is wrong. Over the past few years, the NF has worked hard to explain to nationalists that the IRA are a squalid gang of neo-Marxist imperialist killers. We have had a fair degree of success in this.

So when anyone in the outside world naively supports the IRA, we believe it more sensible to try to explain the truth and to change their minds, rather than writing them off and surrendering to the Fenian lie-machine.

And as a matter of fact, Muammer Qathafi and the Libyan people have constantly denied supporting the IRA and their campaign of death.

As for the question of "Arab gold" financing the NF, the finances of the movement are a matter for its leadership and members. But we make no bones about the fact that we need money to finance our political operations, and that we will accept money from anyone, provided that there are no strings attached which would affect our self-determination as an independent movement.

SCRAPING THE BARREL

The interview tailed off with Channel 4 really scraping the barrel. By examining every scrap of publicity material over at least 3 years, they managed to come up with a handful of things which, if taken out of context, could be used to try to create a violent image for the NF.

As a matter of fact, several of these criticisms are justified, but concentrating on these points and ignoring a thousand times as many positive and constructive points is not. But let us deal with some of them anyway.

Channel 4 asked why Kev Turner, the leader of an NF orientated rock group called Skullhead, was described as a 'POW' when he was imprisoned for a non-political assault. On reflection we accept that the description was a youthful propaganda excess. And anyone who cares to write to Kev and ask him of his views on his imprisonment will be told that he deserved his punishment. But, we do regard the length of Kev's sentence, and the repeated refusals of parole, to be politically motivated and to be the work of people who want to deprive the NF of Kev's talents as an organizer and leading White Noise Club figure for as long as possible.

Play was made of the "negative and racist" lyrics of some White Noise material from several years ago. This too is accepted to some extent, but we feel that Channel 4 should have fairly balanced this accusation by noting the extent to which the White Noise Club has sought to change this. This policy resulted in the negative and racist bands leaving the White Noise Club and we have been attacked by some of these racist Nazis like Ian Stuart Donaldson as a result.

Having attacked us with lies about links with Ulster loyalist paramilitary groups, the interviewer now criticized the NF for publishing an interview with the Eire political group, the Social Action Initiative. He alleged that this group was "Nazi". If this is true it certainly did not emerge from the interview, which we felt served a useful purpose in showing Ulster people that a body of articulate people in Eire supported their right to separate nationhood. We would praise any group for such a conciliatory stand. If the SAI hold Nazi style views on other matters, which we have not been led to believe, then we condemn them for it.

Extreme selectivity was used to imply that our use of terms such as 'political soldier' is in some ways designed to incite violence. Here again, there was at least one valid point. We freely admit that a piece of artwork showing a club-wielding youth in a local Welsh publication, though tongue in cheek, could have been misconstrued and was wrong.

But for the rest, we again point out that it is a grotesque distortion of the truth to take a few 'violent' sub-headings and pictures, collected over years, and to ignore a far greater number of constructive articles and condemnations of violence and terrorism.

In fact, the programme, due to be shown on Channel 4's Dispatches in October, is itself likely to incite uninvolved and naive youngsters in acts of violence, particularly against immigrants, as a way of showing 'support' for the NF. We do not want this type of 'support'. Had Channel 4 done as they promised and shown how the Front has developed in recent years, such people would have had the chance to see that there are peaceful political solutions to their problems.

For this is the truth about the NF today. This is why violence and hatred has and is being eradicated from our organization by its present leadership. Though the media are as deceitful as ever, and although certain arms of the State have become far more hostile towards us in recent years, the National Front will continue to work for a peaceful end to the many problems of these islands, and to further the noble Cause of nationalism through constructive example.

THE SEARCHLIES CONNECTION

THE Channel 4 'expose' of the National Front will be a pack of lies, distorted half-truths and fantasy. NFN is confident that this will be the case because Channel 4 are relying on the extremely dubious services of Searchlight magazines Gerry Gable for their 'research'.

Gable is a convicted thief, thug and Special Branch fink who receives information on nationalists from the police in exchange for intelligence on Communists and others who get in touch with him because they naively believe that Searchlight is an anti-racist magazine rather than the Zionist front it really is.

The last TV channel to use his material was BBC1 in the Panorama programme "Maggie's Militant Tendency". Inevitably, using Gable's ludicrous allegations cost the BBC hundreds of thousands of pounds in libel damages and court costs. BBC1 have not employed him since, but it seems that Channel 4 have yet to learn their lesson.

As well as providing 'research' material, Gable is leading the film crew which has been busy in recent weeks calling at the homes and workplaces of a number of people, including Italian refugee Roberto Fiore and NF officials.

The ironic thing about Gable's involvement in a programme falsely accusing the National Front of 'terrorism' is that his associates at Searchlight magazine have repeatedly been shown to be real terrorists themselves. Dave Roberts, for example, was imprisoned for an arson attack on an Indian restaurant in Birmingham. Roberts did it because he was on the editorial board of Searchlight at the time and wanted to provide 'evidence' of a nationalist campaign against immigrant businesses.

Arson seems to be a favourite with the Searchlight crowd. Another close friend of Gable's, Manny Carpel, pleaded guilty to setting fire to a print works which provided publications for the NF. The attack caused £50,000 worth of damage and Carpel was jailed for three years as a result. Gable has refused to condemn his colleagues' violence.

There is certainly a strong case for a TV documentary on terrorism and racial attacks in Britain. But Searchlight should be the subject of such a programme, not its 'research' department.

THE POLICE STATE DRAWS NEAR

National Front News has long documented how Britain is fast turning into a Police State as organized dissent towards the System and its values grows quickly. We have shown how the general tone of our modern police force has changed from fighting crime to becoming a political force that monitors and collates information about political groups or individuals that oppose the system we are forced to live under. And we have pointed out that when a society finds itself in serious degeneration, its police force can be nothing less than politically orientated in its actions because they will do exactly what their masters tell them. If this means breaking up picket lines and attacking peaceful demonstrations then it will be done. Witness the miners strike and the Wapping dispute, and our own Remembrance Parade last November.

We have also detailed the antics and purpose of the more sinister aspects of the State ranging from the Economic League and Searchlight magazine to the 'Security Agencies' such as the Special Branch and MI5.

For many years these agencies have been viewed by the mass of people as necessary branches of the police that defend us all from 'Reds under the bed'. The KGB, CIA and Mossad are seen as sinister organizations, but our own equivalents are seen as whiter than white. But even this is at long last beginning to change. The destruction of the Rainbow Warrior, with the loss of two lives, by the Australian secret police shocked the British public enough to make them half aware that something is amiss in the so-called civilized countries.

And the recent shooting incident in London involving a Cuban diplomat has awoken them a little more. It now seems to be generally accepted that the Cuban was being hounded by British secret police and took action to defend himself. People have been demanding to know why these shadowy figures were 'acting like something out of a James Bond film' in the centre of London. And the widely reported revelation by the ex-MI5 operative that his colleagues were second in effectiveness only to the KGB did nothing to reassure peoples' nervousness.

THE NEXT STAGE

National Front News has also indicated on many occasions how the Police State is likely to develop in future from an insidious nature to more open control and oppression. We have documented the drive to phase out cash transactions and to replace money with plastic cards which are capable of containing a full history of the individual - a political background of the card holder. Under such a system of purchase, the material necessities of life could easily be denied to dissidents.

And we have pointed out how information on individuals such as Health and Social records, Tax records, vehicle licensing records and police files are all being centralized into one big data bank. And now we can identify the next stage in the process of social control.

When the Powers that Be want to restrict anyone's personal freedom and to monitor groups which are outside its establishment, they must always give the false impression that such acts are for the greater good of society.

The State's latest feeble attempt to disguise its motives around their blatant moves to find out more about 'subversive' individuals or groups is the new proposal to give the State access to information about everyone's bank account.

Up until now, unless you have committed a crime, your bank account is, in theory, between just you and your bank. But all of this is to be blown out of the window as Britain takes one further move towards a totalitarian State.

The new proposal states that if a bank thinks that any of its accounts are being used to launder money for drugs it should give details to the police. At first glance there seems nothing wrong with that. But how does a bank suspect that any person or group has been dealing in this evil trade?

The answer must surely be that they can only get such information from the police in the first place. So all the State will now have to do to get information legally on any group or persons not part of its plutocracy, is to make the feeble excuse "we were only checking up to see if there was any drug money in the account".

DEAR EDITOR

PROPHETIC REPORT

Dear Sir,

Your report in issue 108 about likely race violence between different immigrant groups was quite prophetic. One of the hotspots you mentioned was Southall and around the same time as your article there was indeed a massive riot involving over 200 young blacks from outside the area, who went on a mass mugging spree directed at local Asians in Southall Broadway one afternoon.

Yours sincerely,
E.D. London.

CALLING WHITE YOUTH

Dear NFN,

How many times have you heard middle-aged and old people talk how Britain has gone down hill, and has no prospects for its working people.

Many of these people have accepted the system of multi-racism and the fast coming Police State. Even they hate the State but they just complain and do nothing about it.

You can make Britain a better place to live in by not giving up and not accepting the system of the State by getting involved with the movement of the future - the National Front.

The NF has been hammered by the State and its media because the NF speaks the truth.

The Labour Party has collapsed and it will never get in power again. If it did, the country would go bankrupt overnight. Because Labour is in such a mess people vote for the Tories.

The Tories only want what's best for the top people, the rich and the privileged e.g. those who own land all over the country and greedy factory owners.

People like Kinnoch and Thatcher are fascists as they make and pass laws to suit themselves and make themselves even richer.

The working class in this country has no say at all. The newspapers are owned by wealthy bosses and Zionists and are written by reds and reactionaries. They make lies and smears against us all the time because what the NF says is right.

Maggie Thatcher makes anti-immigration noises when she thinks she'll win votes out of it, but she realizes that multi-racism

CHANNEL TUNNEL

Dear Sir,

I haven't heard the National Front make any comments on the channel tunnel. I don't think people realize how serious it could be for the British nations and people. Apart from the destruction of part of the South Coast and countryside we would come under threat from rabies by having a fixed link with Europe. Drug smugglers will have a new route to bring even more death and misery to the streets of Britain. The hard hit ferry industry would lose jobs. The tunnel would become a terrorist target especially with Thatcher supporting American murder in Libya and the Gulf. This tunnel would be of no real benefit to our nations and so must be opposed by all nationalists.

Yours for a nationalist Britain, helps to make her system work.

Thatcher said she stands for law and order; she has done nothing about this at all.

She said the NHS is safe with the Tories; it is dying out into private money making Capitalist concerns.

White Youth - Don't give in. Fight back for Britain with the movement of the future - the National Front.

All you have to do is give up a few nights a week to help the NF. It's not much to ask for the future of Britain.

Yours sincerely,

G., Blackpool.

LIBYA CONDEMNS THE IRA

EVER SINCE the terror bombing of sleeping civilians in Tripoli in April 1986 the British State have tried to justify themselves in the eyes of the world, and more specifically in the eyes of the British peoples, for their criminal act in conjunction with the USA.

They have attempted to justify themselves, and cover up what many people within the establishment now privately recognize as being a ghastly mistake, by claiming that Libya is one of the leading exponents of international terrorism. And their main weapon in this false allegation is that Libya supplies the IRA with weapons and explosives to aid them in their genocidal campaign of Marxist terror. With the seizure of the freighter Eskund last November the master stroke was played. No one dared to question the fact that the supposed crates of Libyan armed forces weapons and explosives were marked in English as being Libyan property! But then the CIA and the Israeli Mossad often make such 'small' mistakes in their Black Propaganda campaigns which are quickly glossed over and forgotten about in the resulting barrage of condemnations and other hot air.

The Libyan Arab people have attempted many times to deny such false accusations, but such attempts have either been ignored by the press or TV interviews have been carefully cut to give a false impression to viewers. But at long last the truth about Libya, the IRA and international terrorism is beginning to slip through the media wall of silence.

To their credit, The Times recently picked up upon a statement issued to the British media by the Libyan Ambassador in Paris. The report in The Times even quoted from the statement which put succinctly the position of the Libyan people towards the Provo's.

"We do not recognize and cannot accept the assassinations and acts of violence carried out by the IRA". And further on in the statement in a general comment about the situation in Ulster, the Libyan people stated "Although we understand the aspirations of the inhabitants of Northern Ireland, we wish to affirm that the path of murder and violence is an illegitimate and amoral path which we condemn". The Libyan Ambassador, Ahmed el-Houdeiri, went on to say that Libya had always condemned acts of violence that bred more violence. "We believe in dialogue. Only negotiations can bring peace and understanding". And in a separate report Libya once again condemned the IRA and described their struggle as being Imperialist.

Meanwhile, two years after the event, more light is being shed on the US terror bombing of Libya conducted from occupational bases in Britain. A new book entitled Best Laid Plan, the Inside Story of America's War against Terrorism, claims that plans were laid to use Terry Waite to lure Col. Qadhafi to his headquarters so that he could be assassinated during the bombing raid. The book was penned by David Martin, a CBS news reporter, and John Walcott of the Wall Street Journal.

Issue no. 3 of Third Way, the journal of the American Friends of the Movement, brings more details to our attention: "Two recent reports, one by the US Senate, and the other by western European specialists, have identified former federal judge, Abraham Sofaer, now serving as the State Department's Chief Law Councillor, as the man who persuaded Reagan in 1986 to authorize a series of covert actions. These actions were aimed at the assassination of a foreign statesman..... The targeted leader was Libyan leader Muammar Al Qadhafi..... Newly unearthed evidence suggests that the Reagan administration first attempted to 'terminate' Qadhafi in 1985 and 1986 using political rivals outside of Libya.

"The congressional report identifies arch-Zionist Sofaer as a key author of the assassination scenario. It also notes that he is the protege of Washington attorney Leonard Garment, a powerful figure in the Israeli lobby. It was Garment who arranged Sofaer's appointment to the US Foreign Service in 1984. As the Senate report goes on to state, Sofaer 'failed to meet the ethical standards' required of a national level official.

"Information disclosed by a special committee of the European Economic Community (EEC) revealed a number of important facts:

"CIA Director William Casey, who died last year of brain cancer, fed the president 'fabricated intelligence reports' designed to depict Qadhafi as a fanatical terrorist who had dispatched terror squads to assassinate the president and other leading officials.

"Liberal columnist Jack Anderson beat the drum for the anti-Qadhafi disinformation campaign citing 'exclusive sources', and published pictures of 'Libyan hit men' said to be en route to Washington DC. Anderson's sources are now revealed to be a brazen hoax. As even the Washington Post was forced to admit last year, claims of Libyan involvement in the Berlin Disco bombing of April 5th, 1986, and other such acts, were false rumours spread by the Israeli Mossad (intelligence agency).

"It was these claims which prompted President Reagan to authorize the April 15th air raid on Libya which resulted in the deaths of 63 civilians, including Qadhafi's adopted 18 month old daughter. Liberals and Conservatives alike lauded the criminal action as being in defence of the 'Western Democracies'.

However, there were voices of dissent even within the military community. NATO Secretary-General Lord Peter Carrington stated in the Brussels summit conference, on March 1st of this year, that the Libyan bombing 'resulted in the most dangerous crisis in my four years in this post'. He soberly added that the attempted assassination of Qadhafi 'moved the world to the brink of war - a monstrous conflict between east and west'."

CPR TRAVEL CAMPAIGN

With the recent launch of the second phase of the Campaign For Palestinian Rights drive, the Association of British Travel Agents seem to be on the receiving end of a heavy round of ear-bashing from their members who support the planned conference in Israel.

The pro-Zionist travel agents rue the day that they let it be known that they support the repressive regime in occupied Palestine. Pickets, crowd-drawing street theatre and thousands of leaflets have turned away many of their customers and hit them where it hurts - in their pockets.

Apparently, in some areas of the country, if newspaper reports are to be believed, irate members of the public have taken to supergluing the locks of their shop doors.

In a large report in the West Lancashire Evening Gazette one pro-ABTA travel agent who has suffered this fate said "ABTA members are wary of commenting for obvious reasons. I don't want a brick putting through my shop window and I don't want to see my business harmed".

Naturally, the CPR doesn't know anything of such tactics and we can even sympathize with these travel shop owners who find they are suffering financially.

But perhaps if these people began to sympathize with the harsh plight of the Palestinians, who are not only losing their livelihoods, but also their lives, then members of the public might stop attacking their property.

At the same time ABTA continue to receive letters of condemnation from around the world at their headquarters at 55-57

Newman Street, London, W1P 4AH.

Among the latest letters received by ABTA chief David Epstein was one from the Pan African Inter-National Movement, based in the USA.

SECTARIANISM

Meanwhile, a development that the Palestinian cause can well do without has arisen.

The left-wing Palestine Solidarity news-sheet has devoted several column inches of valuable space to attacking the CPR in a bout of typical red sectarianism. Apart from ludicrously accusing us of taking the Nazis and fascist groups as our ideological and political mentors, they go on to state that we are responsible for Zionism in the first place!

Pathetic comments like this can only serve to make people ask what benefit these people may have in turning the Palestinian cause in on itself.

As far as we are concerned there can be no place for political sectarianism whilst the Palestinian struggle exists. It is exactly what the Zionists want!

A CPR demonstration in Belfast.

A British snack foods company, KP, are advertising a competition with Pickfords Travel, a member of ABTA. Although many NF units around the country are already holding demonstrations against ABTA with the Campaign for Palestinian Rights, we should not let KP off the hook.

If we can hit ABTA and its travel agents in their pockets we can also do the same for KP. Readers are urged to write to KP, and to encourage their friends and workmates to do the same, telling them why they won't be buying their products any more and describing the situation in occupied Palestine in graphic detail.

THE TORY REAPER

"SAVE THE GREEN BELT FROM THE TORY REAPER". This is the message of the latest local publicity material put out by Havering NF. The outer edge of East London is in the forefront of the drive by big construction companies to persuade the government to abandon the Green Belt vision completely.

The leaflet neatly explains how the attack on the Green Belt in places such as Havering is the inevitable result of national Tory policies.

The chance to use such a local issue to awaken people to the need for radical change at a national level is something which every NFN Supporters unit should constantly look out for.

SUMMER CADRE CONFERENCE

EVERY ONE of the British Family of Nations was represented at this summer's Cadre meeting. Except for a few specially invited officials from NFN Supporters' units, all of those present were paid up and fully active Cadres and Candidates.

A wide range of important topics were discussed, including the NF role in the next stage of the Campaign for Palestinian Rights; current movement strategy and the duties of a Cadre.

A comrade from the Ulster National Front's central executive told the meeting about their plans to produce an Ulster NF paper. A member of the National Directorate then explained how this most welcome step forward would allow the back page of NFN to be used to boost sales and impact in other areas.

The work of the Nationalist Welfare Association also came under review. A spokesman for its committee explained that while its resources were not being stretched at present, fund-raising efforts are being stepped up to ensure that the NWA can be really effective whenever it is needed.

He also pointed out that requests for assistance from individuals or units who have actually helped to raise funds are given more favourable consideration. As he told the meeting "The NWA provides a kind of insurance cover for activists, so it helps if you pay your premiums".

Following this, a most important discussion took place on the NF's response to the illegal police ban on Remembrance Day - first implemented last year.

To the credit of our Cadres and other officials present, the financial target set for the collection at this meeting was once again attained, and the meeting was brought to a close with a stirring speech from a Directorate member with everyone determined to meet again at the end of October for the Annual General Meeting.

Those Cadres and Candidates who could not attend this meeting for whatever reason are asked by their comrades to show their solidarity by donating whatever it would have cost them for their fare to the on-going Technology Fund. Those who live in London or the south are asked to donate that bit extra for obvious reasons.

A VISION FOR ULSTER

AFTER MONTHS of intensive lobbying by the National Front and other smaller groups of thinking loyalists, it is now widely accepted that Independence is Ulster's only option if she is to survive as a distinct and separate entity in years to come. Many have come to realize that only an Independent Ulster state can withstand the twin threats of Westminster betrayal and Fenian aggression.

Yet the NF's call for Independence is not merely a negative knee-jerk reaction to the signing of the Hillsborough Agreement, nor is it a desperate response to the Provo's continuing campaign of genocide. Rather, we see the new Ulster as offering, at last, the opportunity for Ulsterfolk to tackle not only the IRA, but all the other chronic social and economic problems that are often overshadowed by headline-grabbing Republican terrorism.

However, at the same time it is clear that Ulster can only hope to attain any level of peace, stability and prosperity when the IRA scourge has been eradicated. Successive British governments have stood idly by as twenty years of Marxist-inspired bloody terror has claimed the lives of Ulsterfolk and British troops.

Unlike the Westminster traitors, the sovereign government of the new Ulster will not shirk its responsibility to protect its people. War will be declared on the forces of armed Republicanism, spearheaded by a new armed citizens militia. Using the hard knowledge of local people, IRA terrorists will be hunted down and murderers will receive their just punishment - the rope.

Only then, with the border secured and the forces of armed Republicanism on the run, can the Ulster people turn their attention to building a new Society and a better future for our children.

TRUE DEMOCRACY

A top priority in the new state must surely be the restoration of true democracy to Ulster through the erection of a revolutionary new political system of People's Assemblies and Councils.

So-called 'Representative Democracy' has failed the Ulster people. For years our 'representatives' have either imposed their will on the people, witness Sunningdale in 1973, or Westminster has imposed its will on us, witness Hillsborough in 1985.

With power resting where it belongs - in the hands of the people, Ulsterfolk need never again fear tyrannical rule by outsiders or betrayal by self-seeking politicians.

ULSTER ECONOMY

The Ulster economy is also in dire need of an injection of radical new ideas and the implementation of sweeping new measures to revive it after years of decline. Large sections of Ulster's manufacturing base, as elsewhere in the UK, has been sacrificed on the altar of the Capitalist principle of the free market. Cheap foreign products flood our market and one multinational company after another packs up and leaves after sucking taxpayers dry - throwing Ulster workers on the scrapheap.

DEBT FREE CREDIT

In the new Ulster, the emphasis will have to be very firmly placed on the preservation of the remaining home industries. A system of tariffs and quotas will have to be put in place to secure and nurture home industries. The issue of debt-free credit will be the responsibility of an Ulster Investment bank controlled by the new revolutionary government.

Freed from stifling EEC interference, Ulster farmers can knuckle down to the task of feeding our people. Ownership of land will be as widely distributed as possible.

Equally, in industry, the new Ulster will encourage the direct ownership of workplaces by those who work in them. An Ulster National Labour Corps will be set up to undertake vital construction projects as we seek to rebuild our country.

TRADITIONAL VALUES

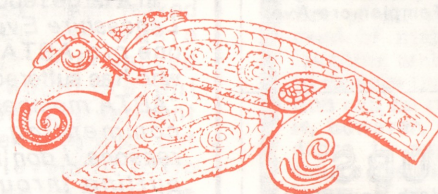

In such an environment we believe that the traditional Ulster values of self-reliance, innovation, industry, thrift and perseverance will flourish and we shall found a healthy society on the principles of self-respect, family honour and national pride.

This is our vision of the new Ulster and that is why we regard Independence as heralding a new dawn for the beleaguered Ulster people. When this vision is realized Ulster will cease to be frowned upon as a world blackspot.

She will raise a shining beacon to a world engulfed in the darkness of economic exploitation, social breakdown, moral corruption and spiritual decay.

Will you play your part in the struggle for our New Ulster?

History, Identity, Culture

IN THE first centuries AD, Ulster covered not only the whole of present day Northern Ireland, but also the territory in counties Donegal, Monaghan and Louth.

The vast majority of the population were Cruthin. While it was they who bore the brunt of the fighting with the Gaels, there also existed a caste of Celtic over-lords called the Ulaid. Both the Cruthin and the Ulaid had their own tribal Kings, and the Cruthin Kings sometimes assumed the over Kingship of Ulster which was normally held by the Ulaid.

The earlier centuries AD also saw the beginning of the Gaels consolidation in the centre of the island of Ireland. The attempted invasion of south-east Ulster - described in the Tain Bo Cuallgne, the Cattle Raid of Cooley - and the heroic defence by Cu Chulainn, also refers to this period.

However, once consolidated, the Gaelic pressure on Ulster began. The Gaels launched attacks in the west, defeated the Cruthin and Ulaid forces there, and pushed the Ulstermen out of Co. Donegal. In the east, Emain Macha, Ulster's ancient capital, was destroyed around 450AD. The Ulstermen in that area then retreated further eastwards. The long earthenwork that can still be seen in places, running from Scarva in Co. Down to Killeavy in Co. Armagh, was built to mark the new boundary.

To the south and west of Lough Neagh there existed a group of subject tribes called the Airgialla. These tribes were now able to set up an autonomous area.

The Gaels, because of the prominence of the Ul Neill family, are usually identified with the O' Neills. The family dynasty split into two, and one section, the Northern O' Neills, completely colonized Co. Donegal. Then in 563AD at the Battle of Moín Dairí Lothair (Money more), they crushed the power of the Cruthin in the west of Ulster, and began to expand into Co. Londonderry.

In 565, the Cruthin over-King of Ulster slew the Northern O' Neill King. Another battle between the Cruthin and O' Neill took place in 579 at Coleraine, but the Cruthin still remained powerful in Co. Londonderry until the early seventh century.

In 627 one of the greatest of all Cruthin Kings, Congal Claen, became over-King of Ulster. The following year he slew the O' Neill High-King. In 637 the Battle of Magh Rath (Moirra) took place. Here, Congal was killed, and the defeat of the Ulstermen also destroyed their last real hope of retaining their independence from the Gaels.

In the 7th and 8th centuries the Northern O' Neills gradually expanded from Donegal and encroached into Airgiallan territory in counties Londonderry and Tyrone. In 827 the Ulstermen fought alongside the Airgialla at the Battle of Leth Cam. However, the battle was lost and many Airgialla Kings were lost.

The Ulstermen continued to resist the Gaelic advance. In 1004 another great battle was fought at Craeb Tulcha. Here the Cruthin and Ulaid Kings were killed as well as the O' Neill victor.

As late as 1084, the Ulaid gathered a huge army and marched to the Boyne, trying to forge an alliance with the King of Breifne, a Kingdom which had begun to expand between the Northern and Southern O' Neills. The attempt failed, and the Ulaid were defeated by the O' Neills.
